ENTAILMENT OF ESTATES

N the year that the famous duel between Alexander Hamilton ous. and Aaron Burr was fought on the Hudson Palisades and Hamilton fell mortally wounded, William Hall died in New Brunswick, New Jersey. He left a will which set aside a fund of $3,000 in perpetuity, the income to be used for the education of poor children.

The motive was worthy, but Hall could not foresee the progressive changes to take place within a few generations, when education would be not only free but also compulsory. solve it without the aid of his writ-So for the last 48 years the income has not been disbursed because there were no poor children to educate, within the meaning of the will. And now the trustees have asked the court what to do with the money on hand, a total of some $10,000.

This is another demonstration that no man is able to comprehend, even in small degree, what change the years will bring in relationships and manner of living, in institutions and governments. Yet many individuals go on committing the error of trying to order the future in their disposal of their earthly affairs, sood teachers who require a small setting aside funds to be distributed 50 or 100 years hence to handed in, but often this assign- tomorrow 6:35. needs that then may be non-existent, as in the New Jersey in- ment is too long. OUR POTENTIAL AIR POWER

Reports to Wasnington indicate that present production of aircraft in the United States has been speeded up to between 15,000 and 17,000 planes a year. This is about five times the rate of production that

Furthermore, government officials say that, in the event of war in which the United States was engaged, plane production in this country could be stepped up rapidly to 25,000 units in a year.

Twenty-five thousand planes represent a lot of aircraft. The fact that the United States can produce and keep aloft this huge number of potential war machines a year, each model not more than a year old, is one of the best defenses we have against encroachments of any foreign

SUICIDE AND MANSLAUGHTER

Just why many seemingly intelligent drivers of automobiles are continually attempting suicide and manslaughter, is beyond understanding. Their actions any place but in an automobile would in most cases place them under mental observation or in jail.

W. M. Jeffers, President of the Union Pacific Railroad, announced on January 19, that from January 1 to that date, there had been 13 cases where drivers had carelessly run into the side of trains at crossings. or stalled their cars on railroad tracks of the Union Pacific, at widely separated locations in seven states. A stalled automobile on a public highway crossing derailed a fast mail and express train, killing the engineer and fireman.

"Carelessness on the part of automobile drivers is to blame in every instance of this sort," said Mr. Jeffers. "In all the cases since the first of the year, not a single one was trying to beat a train to a crossing. Every one was a case of utter failure to look both ways in approaching the crossing, and stopping to make sure.

WORK LESS AND LIVE LONGER

The counsel of Dr. Edgar V. Allen of the Mayo Clinic may have the effect of deflating big executives somewhat, but those who are wise proval. At last, from the best sourwill accept it as being designed for their own good and will govern them- ces, inspiration came to Sir Samuel

Doctor Allen is guilty, of course, of a great deal of heresy and not Psalm there were the words (verse a little libel when he says that even the biggest of the executives really 8), "The shall have dominion also isn't very important in the general scheme of things. "If he could only from sea to sea, and from the river see," Doctor Allen says, referring to the big executive, "how small, how insignificant, how unimportant his individual life is, he might shape it he said to himself, and the next so that he would achieve more of happiness and content and less of morning he proposed the title to his drop of crude oil, even to the odor. material success and perhaps ill health.'

There may be a grain of truth in all of this but at the same time it is outrageous. What could be more disrespectful and contemptuous than to classify as "insignificant and unimportant" a big executive who of Canada. keeps two or three desk telephones busy constantly, has a corps of stenographers at his command, a flock of under-executives, whose brain teems with ideas, whose tongue shoots forth orders with machine-gun rapidity and who puffs furiously on a big black cigar all the while? Regardless of what Doctor Allen may say, this man is important. Or is he? Nevertheless, the good doctor's advice has a convincing ring. He suggests that the big shots take it easy, lie in bed a morning a week, fiddle around with hobbies, do a little physical work, walk or cycle rather than motor, golf, hunt and fish just for the heck of it, rather than the score," the bag or the catch.

Such a formula would be good for the big executive—good for his blood pressure, his arteries and his temper.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LET JUNIOR DO HIS OWN HOMEWORK

A JUNIOR high school teacher

"We teachers have had trouble with parents who actually do the work for the child and expect the child to get credit for it. One boy's parents asked to have him changed to another school because some of his teachers refused to give credit for the work done by the mother. This child brought perfect papers to school but was an absolute failure in class work and tests."

All too many children get good grades on written homework done by their parents. An occasional parent, however, earns poor grades for

In extreme instances, in which the child is overwhelmed by the amount and difficulty of homework assignment, the parent might be justified, as a humane measure, in doing a bit of the child's work for him. However, for the child to get a grade at school for work he had not done himself is morally hazard-

Shouldn't Assign It

Teachers should not, as a rule, assign written work to be done at home and then graded at school. This procedure tempts too many parents and classmates to do school work for the pupil at home. When a paper is prepared at home, the student might well be asked at school to summarize it or give its salient points from memory. If it is a problem in mathematics, he should ce expected to be ready at school to ten work.

Some wise teachers of English urge the student to outline a theme at home, getting any help he can, and then write it in the classroom. Some teachers of foreign language have applied the same principle. Won't Prepare Work

Of course, many a youth will not prepare his work outside of class unless he must hand in definite written assignments. I know some amount of such written work to be ten work outside of class. In those husbands when they talk in their facts about goods, so they can spend assignments given the emphasis is sleep, and everything would be just their money to better purpose. on work which appeals to the stu- lovely. dent's resourcefulness and which exercises appreciations and skills knowledge which can be revealed through brief tests or projects of creation in the classroom

Another trend is toward few or no home assignments below the fifth or sixth grade, and more reasonable amounts thereafter. It is not homework itself that needs condemnation; it is the excessive amount of it given by a few teachers. Unless the school day is lengthened so that students in junior and senior high schools will have ample time for at school, homework can hardly be dispensed with by the secondary school which has an ambition to maintain high standards of scholarship.

Uncle Sam Feels Sorry For Norway Will Keep Out Of Altmark Argument Incident Is Reviewed By Columnist

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.-Official Washington is sorry for Norway in the jam it's in over the Altmark case. It by no means is sorry enough, however, to show any enthusiasm over the Norse suggestion that President Roosevelt arbitrate between the little Scandinavian kingdom and the British, on one hand, and the Germans on the other. Nobody questions that F. D. is more than eager to serve as a peacemaker in any promising situation, but this evidently isn't one.

Graham Opposed Census 'Snooping'

Congressman Voted To Halt Mortgage And Income Questions For Census

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 28.-Representative Louis Graham of Beaver was among the House Republicans who unsuccessfully sought this week to prohibit census enumerators from calling at your door and asking those embarrassing questions about income and home

The House Republicans consumed one entire day trying to outlaw questions about personal income and home mortgages. Failing in this they tried to prohibit punishment of citizens refusing to answer. Existing law provides that people declining with their grandparents, Mr. and to answer the questions or giving wrong information may be fined or jailed or both.

> Congressman Graham voted repeatedly to eliminate the objectionable questions and to forbid the punishment of home owners refusing to answer, but a solid Democratic majority succeeded in beating down all these proposals. A Senate Commerce committee is investigating the legality of such GATLINBURG. Tenn .- Fortyseven of the 48 states were represented among the 15,630 visitors last December to the Great Mountains National Park, according to figures released by Superintendent J. Ross Eakin. He said the total was a 42 per cent increase over the number of visitors to the park in December, 1938. Only state not represented was South Dakota. Other visitors came from Mexico, juries to her hand in an accident Hawaii, Ontario and Sasketchewan in her home last week, is getting and the District of Columbia.

House and even larger, proportionately, in the Senate. And they have nearly three months in which to act.

BY adopting the Frank suggestions

as to the Wagner Act and the NLRB

they could remove from the campaign a very real issue and deprive the Republicans of a very effective point of attack. By recognizing that the present method of relief is wasteful and inefficient, and naming a commission to study the facts and recommend a better system at the next session, they could cover up another very vulnerable spot. By they could blunt the force of the attack upon the wild New Deal expenditures and demonstrate that the Democratic party has turned toward a balanced budget. And by resolution of Congress, they could discourage the schemes of the New Deal radicals to destroy public confidence in the insurance companies and advance toward national ownership of utilities by, among other things, forcing the appointment of one of their own group as trustee

IN brief, the Democrats in Congress, without violating their principles or repudiating their record, could perform in such a way in the next three months as to leave the Republicans without an issue in the campaign and very little ground for indictment. In doing this, they would be moving with and not against public sentiment. They could make the Frank program look silly and put the Republican candidates up in the air. They could do that but they will not. And the reason they will not is because they will get no help from the President.

weight will be dead against any move which suggests that he has not devised the perfect system of relief. He will resist-in fact, is now resisting-all efforts to cut appropriations and will oppose any amendment to the Labor Act not sponsored by its author, Senator Wagner. So, too, will he oppose any real move toward budget balancing, toward curbing the regulatory commissions he has set up, or checking the young radicals, hot to discredit the capitalistic system. TO SOME people, this spruce and sprightly Buick I SPECIAL may be just one of those ambitions they hope some day to achieve.

But if you ask owners—especially those who have stepped up to Buick from the lowest-price fieldyou'll find it's really an eye-opener to a new and sounder slant on automobile buying.

Actually, the money difference between lesser cars and this nimble traveler is smaller than most people think. And when you've driven a Buick a while you find that spending these few extra dollars is really the soundest kind of economy.

They buy more power. They buy more room. They buy the matchless comfort of all-coil springing and the welcome feeling of having come up in the world.

They also buy more automobile. A bigger, solider, more durable frame. A husky, time-defying chassis. Top-grade materials, superfine precision, "on the money" craftsmanship, things that make the difference between an adequate car and a good one. You get your money back in from automatic choke to the Flash-Way Direction Signal with automatic cut-off. Every mile you drive you'll see how you profit by spending enough to get something really

Swing Into SPRING WITH A NEW

You'll thoroughly enjoy a New Buick and you'll get a thrill out of every mile that you drive it. Because this year's Buick offers so many outstanding features and advantages for only a few dollars more than many lesser cars, we urge you to see it and drive it.

Hearings Being Held On Move To Halt Personal Income Questions In Census

By ROBERT A. McGILL International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 .- Opponents to 1940 census questions pertaining to personal income today clashed with commerce department officials as a senate commerce subcommittee began hearings on legislation to delete personal information from the census questionnaire. A group of witnesses summoned by Senator Tobey (R) New Hampshire, opened what they called the 'common man's" attack on thequestionnaire, as William L. Austin, census director, defended it. Frank L. Peckman, president of the sentinals of the republic and Tobey's first witness, declared that we are opposed to further federal encroachment on the reserved rights of the states and individual rights of citizens." "It isn't necessary." he asserted.

"that every person live in a gold fish bowl in a republic such as ours, Rowland declared that Ross had and there are just some things that the government has no business prying into.'

Austin said that the government has precedents dating back more than a hundred years on which to base inquiry into personal income. He pointed out that the information obtained was "confidential" and -BUY IN NEW CASTLE-

(International News Service) HERMOSA BEACH, Cal., Feb. 28 -Authorities revealed today they were not satisfied they had learned the complete story about the suicide Monday of Harry Thomas Bates, 50, an aircraft worker wno once lived in Pittsburgh and his attempted murder of his wife. The wife, Mrs. Alice Bates, 40, was questioned particularly as to why she waited half an hour after her husband had hanged himself before reporting his death to police.

"My husband had attempted suicide so often I could not believe he really was dead," police quoted Mrs. Bates as relating. "Besides," she added, "I was so groggy I lost all track of time.

Mrs. Bates said that before her husband hanged himself from a lighting fixture, he had tried to choke her with a noose.

FROM ME TO YOU

In three years out of four this day would be the last day of the month of February, but it isn't . . . we have an extra day this year and in some localities quite a time is planned for what is called "leap year day". According to tradition this is the year when the young ladies have the privilege of asking for the hand of their loved ones . . . no doubt some will take advantage of their opportunity. Anyhow what use is a bachelor or an old maid, for that matter? . . . They live in a world that is in most cases entirely different than that of normal human beings. Their outlook on life is so very different that many people call them unusual . . . and look upon them as something the cat dragged in. No doubt some of our bachelor friends will take objection to the above statements . . . but if the shoe fits let them put it on.

In these days of modern times . . . when folks build new houses ... there is quite a discussion concerning the point ... "should we have a dining room or use the living room for such an affair". Well you no doubt have your own ideas on this topic. Some say you can save money if you don't have to buy a whole outfit for a dining room . . . without a dining room more room can be used for other rooms in the house. However we don't exactly agree all the way around on the no dining room idea. The dining room is a great room in any house IF it is properly used . . . Look back over your history, as far back as you wish, the Romans did a great deal of eating and in fine style too. They took hours to eat a meal and then the members of King Arthur's court . . . how many times have you read about the famous round table and their famous foods. Well we Americans today can make our dining room an important part of the house. A place where each member of the family meets and are all of one mind. An ideal place to get acquiinted with the other members of the family . . . and folks that's what this country needs, more home life and less dens of

When you are thinking about planting seeds, flowers or shrubbery, why not visit local merchants first. In many cases you will find they can beat out of town prices and you can always rely on a local merchant to be honest. He can't pick up and leave when he wants to . . . so this year shop in New Castle for garden needs.

ciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction must be confined to property actually, used in trade, business and/or profession, and to improve-ments on real property, other than property used by the taxpayer as his personal residence. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc—the cost of which cannot be deducted as a business expense. A lawyer, doctor, or other professional man may not charge off as a current expense the cost of a lib-rary used wholly in his profession, this being a capital expenditure and the library a capital asset; but he may deduct an allowance for depreciation based upon the useful life of the library. If part of a professional man's residence is used by him for office purposes, a proportionate amount of the depreciation sustained may be deducted, based generally on the ratio of the number of rooms used for such purposes to the total number of rooms in the building. The same principle applies if a taxpayer rents to others a por-tion of his residence. Under such conditions, however, the taxpayer must include in his gross income the rentals received. -BUY IN NEW CASTLE-
